

Numerical simulation of a tracer test in the Cooper Basin reservoir

On behalf of Geodynamics Limited, Q-con numerically modelled a tracer test conducted in the Cooper Basin (Australia) geothermal reservoir.

Based on a three-dimensional reservoir model obtained from passive seismic observations, Q-con successfully simulated the tracer test with a perfect match between simulated data and the observed tracer response.